

OPP #101: THE SOFTWARE COMPANY PLAY

OPP = OTHER PEOPLE'S PEOPLE

DON'T BUILD THE ROOM. FIND THE PERSON WHO ALREADY OWNS THE ROOM.

YOUR CHALLENGE: Turn a software company whose customers match the people I am best qualified to train into a real opportunity to get in front of an audience that is already gathered.

ONE AUDIENCE → ONE DECISION MAKER → ONE OFFER → EMAIL SENT

DON'T READ THE PROMPT. TAKE A PICTURE OF IT. GIVE IT TO CHATGPT.

I am completing an advanced OPP exercise for AI consultants. OPP means Other People's People. Instead of building an audience from scratch, I want to identify an organization that already gathers the exact people I am qualified to help and get invited to provide a live AI training to THEIR people.

MY ASSIGNMENT: Find a software company whose CUSTOMER BASE includes a meaningful concentration of people I am especially qualified to train. Do not prioritize geography unless it creates a real advantage. Prioritize audience fit, customer education, community access, and evidence the company uses webinars, events, academies, user groups, or outside experts.

Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for customer education, customer marketing, community, partnerships, events, customer success, academy/learning, or partner marketing leader. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

MY GOAL TODAY IS NOT RESEARCH. MY GOAL IS AN EMAIL SENT. Do not consider this exercise complete until I confirm the outreach was sent.

Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

MY GOAL TODAY IS NOT RESEARCH. MY GOAL IS AN EMAIL SENT. Do not consider this exercise complete until I confirm the outreach was sent.

OPP #111: THE PAYMENT PLATFORM PLAY

OPP = OTHER PEOPLE'S PEOPLE

DON'T BUILD THE ROOM. FIND THE PERSON WHO ALREADY OWNS THE ROOM.

YOUR CHALLENGE: Turn a payment processor or commerce platform with a business-owner audience into a real opportunity to get in front of an audience that is already gathered.

ONE AUDIENCE → ONE DECISION MAKER → ONE OFFER → EMAIL SENT

DON'T READ THE PROMPT. TAKE A PICTURE OF IT. GIVE IT TO CHATGPT.

I am completing an advanced OPP exercise for AI consultants. OPP means Other People's People. Instead of building an audience from scratch, I want to identify an organization that already gathers the exact people I am qualified to help and get invited to provide a live AI training to THEIR people.

MY ASSIGNMENT: Find a payment or commerce platform whose merchants or small-business customers would benefit from my AI expertise and identify a training opportunity for that audience.

Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for small business programs, merchant education, community, partnerships, customer marketing, events, or customer success leader. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for community organizer, developer relations, education, events, partnerships, program, or ecosystem leader. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

OPP #130: THE CORPORATE FOUNDATION PLAY

OPP = OTHER PEOPLE'S PEOPLE

DON'T BUILD THE ROOM. FIND THE PERSON WHO ALREADY OWNS THE ROOM.

YOUR CHALLENGE: Turn a corporate foundation or community impact program that funds or hosts business education into a real opportunity to get in front of an audience that is already gathered.

ONE AUDIENCE → ONE DECISION MAKER → ONE OFFER → EMAIL SENT

DON'T READ THE PROMPT. TAKE A PICTURE OF IT. GIVE IT TO CHATGPT.

I am completing an advanced OPP exercise for AI consultants. OPP means Other People's People. Instead of building an audience from scratch, I want to identify an organization that already gathers the exact people I am qualified to help and get invited to provide a live AI training to THEIR people.

MY ASSIGNMENT: Find a corporate foundation or community impact initiative that already supports entrepreneurs, workforce participants, nonprofits, or small businesses and identify a practical AI training opportunity.

Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for foundation program officer, community impact, economic opportunity, workforce, small business, partnerships, or program leader. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

MY GOAL TODAY IS NOT RESEARCH. MY GOAL IS AN EMAIL SENT. Do not consider this exercise complete until I confirm the outreach was sent.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

MY GOAL TODAY IS NOT RESEARCH. MY GOAL IS AN EMAIL SENT. Do not consider this exercise complete until I confirm the outreach was sent.

OPP #140: THE FACEBOOK GROUP PLAY

OPP = OTHER PEOPLE'S PEOPLE

DON'T BUILD THE ROOM. FIND THE PERSON WHO ALREADY OWNS THE ROOM.

YOUR CHALLENGE: Turn a large, active Facebook Group with my ideal audience into a real opportunity to get in front of an audience that is already gathered.

ONE AUDIENCE → ONE DECISION MAKER → ONE OFFER → EMAIL SENT

DON'T READ THE PROMPT. TAKE A PICTURE OF IT. GIVE IT TO CHATGPT.

I am completing an advanced OPP exercise for AI consultants. OPP means Other People's People. Instead of building an audience from scratch, I want to identify an organization that already gathers the exact people I am qualified to help and get invited to provide a live AI training to THEIR people.

MY ASSIGNMENT: Find a credible, active Facebook Group whose members closely match my expertise and identify a legitimate path to offer a live AI training without spamming the community.

Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for group owner, administrator, moderator, community manager, events lead, or partnership contact. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.

Use current web research when available and prioritize official, current sources. Do NOT give me a long list. Select the ONE strongest target. Prioritize audience fit and access over convenience. Look for evidence that the organization already educates or gathers its people through webinars, academies, conferences, communities, customer/member education, workshops, events, partner programs, user groups, or outside experts. Look for a timely reason to contact them NOW.

Determine what I am especially qualified to teach THIS audience. Recommend ONE low-friction live AI training that solves a real audience need, demonstrates value, and can naturally lead to a larger paid consulting or training engagement. Give me a strong title and three specific outcomes. The first outreach should start a conversation, not close a contract. Do not lead with pricing.

Find the actual person most likely to say YES or champion this opportunity. Look especially for alumni/community leader, continuing education, learner success, partnerships, events, curriculum, or program leader. Give me their name, title, organization, verified public professional email, phone and LinkedIn when available. NEVER invent, infer, guess, or construct contact information. If a direct email cannot be verified, find another verified official contact method.

Tell me briefly how to POSITION myself specifically for this organization. Connect my expertise to something you discovered about its audience, customers, members, partners, programs, priorities, or timely needs. Do not give me a generic "I am an AI consultant" pitch.

Write a personalized outreach email of 150 words or less. Make it human, conversational, credible and focused on value to THEIR people. Include a strong subject line and one real researched detail or timely hook when appropriate.

THEN HELP ME SEND IT. Show me the verified recipient, subject and complete email and ask me to approve it. If ChatGPT can send through my connected email, send it only after my explicit approval. If I have multiple accounts, ask which one to use. If you cannot send it, give me everything in an easy-to-copy format. Never say it was sent unless it was actually sent successfully.

Once sent, say "OPP ACTIVATED!" and give me: Organization, Who Already Has My People, Decision Maker, Contact Method, Training Offered, Date Contacted, Follow-Up Date and Next Action. Give me a short follow-up strategy if I receive no response.

MY GOAL TODAY IS NOT RESEARCH. MY GOAL IS AN EMAIL SENT. Do not consider this exercise complete until I confirm the outreach was sent.

TODAY'S WIN = SEND | ULTIMATE WIN = GET IN THE ROOM

OPP #150: THE DISTRIBUTION PARTNER PLAY

OPP = OTHER PEOPLE'S PEOPLE

DON'T BUILD THE ROOM. FIND THE PERSON WHO ALREADY OWNS THE ROOM.

YOUR CHALLENGE: Turn an organization that already owns access to a large concentration of the exact people I should train into a real opportunity to get in front of an audience that is already gathered.

ONE AUDIENCE → ONE DECISION MAKER → ONE OFFER → EMAIL SENT

DON'T READ THE PROMPT. TAKE A PICTURE OF IT. GIVE IT TO CHATGPT.

I am completing an advanced OPP exercise for AI consultants. OPP means Other People's People. Instead of building an audience from scratch, I want to identify an organization that already gathers the exact people I am qualified to help and get invited to provide a live AI training to THEIR people.

MY ASSIGNMENT: Based on everything you know about me, identify ONE high-leverage distribution partner that already has a meaningful concentration of the exact people I am best qualified to train. Think beyond obvious associations and geography. Prioritize audience concentration, access, education mechanisms, credibility fit, and the potential for one relationship to create repeated training opportunities.

Based on what you know about me, act as my business development research and outreach agent and do the majority of the work. Analyze my expertise, consulting experience, industries, credibility, relationships, location when relevant, and the audiences I can credibly serve. If something essential is missing, ask only the minimum question needed, then continue.
